LifeBooster Inc. named to the 2017 Emerging Rockets list for Digital Health

Vancouver, CANADA – March 6, 2017

Ready to Rocket is a unique business recognition list that profiles technology companies with the greatest potential for growth. Each year, based on analysis of trends, Rocket Builders identifies the top private companies that are best positioned to capitalize on these trends to achieve growth. This selection methodology has been an accurate predictor of investment and business success with past "Ready to Rocket" companies.

LifeBooster is on the leading edge of health and safety by providing a predictive technology that shifts the focus of injury management from reactive to proactive. Their ErgoSenz system helps safety professionals understand and identify the leading indicators of musculoskeletal disorders quicker and more effectively than ever before, which allows them the prevent injuries before they occur. LifeBooster is proud to be recognised amongst the exceptional members of the 2017 Emerging Rockets list in Digital Health.

The Emerging Rocket Digital Health List highlights a number of companies who are in a strong position to show excellent growth in the coming year. "We identify companies that have both innovative technology and are uniquely positioned to provide a compelling solution. Our analysis of the market and the company progress led to our selection of LifeBooster as an Emerging Rocket Digital Health company." said Geoffrey Hansen, Managing Partner, Rocket Builders.

"We are thrilled to have been recognized by this amazing organization as an Emerging Rockets Digital Health company," says LifeBooster's CEO, Bryan Statham. "2016 showed a lot of growth in both our product and business development and 2017 is already looking to continue that trend."

LifeBooster is ready to rocket in 2017 with seeking investment, solidifying partnerships, and adding great members to their team. The global health and safety market is evolving quickly, with large, self-insured industrial enterprises actively seeking out digital solutions like ErgoSenz, to highly reduce the frequency and severity of their workplace injuries.

About LifeBooster Inc.

LifeBooster is a health and safety predictive analytics company that utilizes the latest in wearable technologies to help self-insured industrial enterprises eliminate the single largest and most costly injury type, musculoskeletal disorders. These injuries represent 33% of all workplace injuries and cost US industrial companies $21 billion in direct costs alone each year, with indirect costs reaching anywhere from 1 to 10 times that of the direct. LifeBooster provides companies with quantified, actionable data that enables them to prioritize their risk mitigation strategies in a timely matter, reduce their immense costs surrounding these preventable injuries, and ultimately prevents them from occurring in the first place.
